

Welcome!

Welcome to the students, teachers, and librarians of Allentown, Pennsylvania! We're happy you are using Infotopia.info and Kidtopia.info for your research needs!

infotopia.info

Have you noticed anything new about the image on the front page of Infotopia? Every time you refresh it, you get a new picture. Be sure to hover over "About Photo" at the bottom left of the picture and then click on it if you want to know more or maybe watch a video about it. Do you like this feature? Send us your comments.

Are your middle or high school students studying health and disease? Why not try our recommended resources, including WebMD, CDC Fast Stats, the Internet Public Library Health Topics page, RefDesk Health, Gray's Anatomy (in full text) on Bartleby, and more!

Kidtopia

Our Kidtopia Art resource pages have many links to wonderful web sites on Art History for Kids, coloring pages, crafts, dance, drama, music, pottery, printmaking, artists, drawing, painting, and more! We just discovered a new resource for all grades from Kindergarten to High School. It's called KinderArt and it has links to art lessons by discipline, art lessons by age and grade, and art for special themes and days. Or, go to our Arts page and try out one of the other subjects!

Are your middle or high school students ready to investigate the latest journal articles about all fields of science? Try Science Daily as a source of the latest news in science research. Topics range from Health and Medicine, Mind and Brain, and Living Well, to Space and Time, Matter and Energy, Computers and Math, Plants and Animals, Earth and Climate, and Fossils and Ruins! Some of today's topics include articles such as "Zombie Cancer Cells Eat Themselves to Live," and "Does a Junk Food Diet Make You Lazy?"

This is just one of the amazing resources available on Infotopia's Science Resource Page. You can find it at

Did you know that your high school or college students can easily search web portals such as Chabot College, ERIC, Infomine, JSTOR, LibGuides and more from the front page of AcademicIndex.net? Just type your keywords into the "Search Additional Multidisciplinary Web Portals" search box, select the portals that interest you, and click search. Try and you'll be surprised at the quality of the results.
