

Check out our brand new 2016 U.S. Presidential Election web page with over 20 different resources. Your students can find videos of the candidates, learn about their beliefs on the issues, watch the debates, look at the latest political cartoons about the election, and preview a 2016 Electoral College map. Students can also take a quiz to see which candidate best fits their own viewpoints on social, environmental, domestic, health care, foreign policy, education, and immigration issues. This will be a constantly changing resource as the election approaches and the candidates are narrowed.

Welcome!

Welcome to the students, teachers, and librarians of Valley Stream, New York! We're happy you are using Infotopia.info, Infotrek.info and Kidtopia.info for your research needs!

<https://www.chesskid.com/>

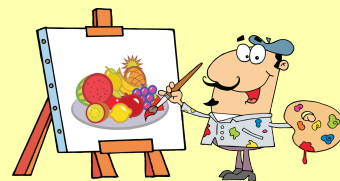

Learn to play chess online with this site recommended by the American Library Association. With the free membership, students can play live chess, sample up to 5 puzzles per day, and read their articles. There is an instructional video to help explain the rules of chess and your students can play against the computer to learn great chess moves!

Do you and your students love art, but you are too far away to visit an art museum? Why not visit an amazing online gallery of art? Our favorite "gallery" of art is the Web Gallery of Art. Available in both a desktop and mobile version, you can search by the artist's name, school of art (from American to Polish), period (from Medieval to Impressionism), timeline, or profession (Painter to Tapestry Weaver).

You can also take any of fifteen tours of famous artists or art locations such as Italian painters, the Sistine Chapel, or Women Artists. You can try a "dual mode" to compare artists and their work side by side. You can send an electronic postcard to a friend and include a fine work of art on the card. There is a glossary, and you can also listen to classical music while you explore the web site. This site is not just for art students and teachers! It's also for the rest of us who want to explore our artistic side too!

Search for Educational Games and Activities on our brand new educational games page on Kidtopia, for students in grades PK-3/4. Students simply “click” on the word which accompanies the animated pictures and the word is entered into the search box. Then, the students “click” on the Search Button. Many early childhood teachers have asked us to include pictures to accompany the words for their early readers. Here is a screen shot of the new page. The last box is a link to the original games resource page from Kidtopia.
