Some of our favorite websites include the following:

- <https://poets.org/poems>
Includes poem-a-day and can be browsed by poet or poem.
- <https://www.bbc.co.uk/arts/poetry/outloud/>
Poets perform their own work. It is no longer being updated, but still has great content.
- <https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/poetryeverywhere/>
Poetry Everywhere (PBS) with Garrison Keillor—includes a short biography of the poet and the poets read their own poetry.
- <https://americanliterature.com/100-great-poems>
100 great poems by poets around the world grouped by mood: love poems, metaphysical poems, nature poems, “off-beat” poems, and joyful poems.
- <https://americanliterature.com/poetry-for-students>
50+ favorite poems for secondary students to read aloud.

Lessons, activities and video/audio readings from NEA for all grades for National Poetry Month

Welcome!

Welcome to the students and teachers of Doylestown, Pennsylvania! We're happy you are using Infotopia.info, Infotrek.info and Kidtopia.info for your research needs!

Holocaust

The Holocaust

Are your students researching the Holocaust? Explore Infotopia's Holocaust recommendations from reliable, authoritative websites such as the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, the Jewish Virtual Library, the Houston Holocaust Museum, and other worldwide resources. (Please note that there are very graphic images on certain sites.)

Get Inspired!

Check out articles written by educators on Edutopia, which is sponsored by the George Lucas Foundation. Topics range from Assessment to Project Based Learning and Teacher Development to Technology Integration and much more! Teachers can scroll to the bottom of the page and select from popular topics, read articles based on a certain grade range, topics from A to Z, or find articles specifically for new teachers.

Edutopia states that it believes three skills are vital for the 21st Century:

- "The ability to find fact-based information
- The ability to assess the quality of the information
- The ability to creatively and effectively use information to accomplish a goal."

Are you helping your students to achieve these goals?
