Have you tried Infotrek.info with your high school students? The unique feature of Infotrek is that it suggests sub-topics within major topics, and then suggests specific keywords within the sub-topics. Let's try it with Science, Technology, and Math.

<http://www.infotrek.info/science.html>

Under the topic Science, Technology, and Math, you will find the sub-topics of General Science, Earth Science, Life Science, Physical Science, Chemistry, Astronomy and Space Science, Technology, and Math.

http://www.infotrek.info/life_science.html

Under the sub-topic of Life Science (and all sub-topics), you will find a scrolling menu of specific keywords.

After a class in California used Infotrek for research in astronomy, we received an email from their librarian, stating that one of the students said, "'It was really nice of them to make this just for us!'"
