A friend asked if we had any ideas to help her teenagers keep practicing their newly acquired Spanish while school is out. Here are some of our ideas:

1) Watch a simple television program on Netflix or Amazon Prime and select the language and the closed captions in Spanish or French or any other language available. (Be sure to check the ratings, of course.)

2) There are a number of language learning sites on YouTube now. One I discovered for high school students is called EXTRA. It is a bit like a soap opera and there is one for French and one for Spanish.

Ollie Richards has some great videos on YouTube about learning languages as well.

3) Check out Duolingo, which is now free on your phone or computer.

4) Free from Annenberg, watch Destinos for Spanish or French in Action for French.
