Animal Images on Kidtopia

https://www.kidtopia.info/animal_images.html

On this resource page, your elementary students can find the following:

- Animal print-outs
- Actual photographs
- Fun facts
- Conservation status
- Diet, size, habitat and more
- Names and pictures of baby animals (What do you call a baby aardvark?) (Answer: pup)
- Color an animal online
- Find animal clipart for projects

Find coloring pages of animals at one of our favorite websites:

<https://www.enchantedlearning.com/coloring>

You can find more about animals on Kidtopia here:

<https://www.kidtopia.info/animals.html>

(PS: I'm a llama! A baby llama is called a "cria.")

<https://www.infotrek.info/>

Infotrek is a gold mine of suggested topics and results for the following subjects:

The Sciences
Technology
Mathematics
Biographies
The Arts
Literature (worldwide)
Social Studies
History
Health, Nutrition and Disease
Quotations
Images, Audio and Video Resources
Languages

You may have noticed that.....

Infotrek no longer inserts the suggested topics into the search box. (Google no longer allows this.) You, as the user, can simply type the topic into the search box, or copy and paste it into the search box. You'll get the same amazing custom results that Infotrek is famous for.

Don't forget that Infotrek is designed for upper high school and college students.

Educators Technology

From Educators Technology, check out this recent post by Med Kharbach. If you are looking for YouTube channels to help your students (or yourself) to learn to draw, there are 15 amazing instructional videos and tutorials in this link. Many of the artists included offer tutorials to learn to draw animation, sketches, manga, people, and more. There is even one channel that helps young students learn to draw.
